MOVIE CAMERA 'GET' PARADE

1926 CHAUTAUQUA OPENS HERE THIS AFTERNOON.

TO FORM JUNIOR TOWN

Tickets Sell Well—Magician Performs Tonight—Lecture, Music and Play Tomorrow.

Clowns, ponies, calliope, boy scouts, girl scouts, Red Cross, floats, boys and girls, and cars and cars and cars—all makes, all models—contributed to the parade which officially opened the 1926 Maryville Chautauqua this afternoon. And the Chautauqua is now on. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Krantz Concert Co., a family of entertainers, opened the week of entertainment before a well-filled tent.

The parade this afternoon formed the nucleus of a story which will be told in motion picture form next Wednesday night as the final one of the fourteen entertainments which Redpath-Vawter is offering on this season's program.

A movie photographer, stationed on a truck, "shot" the parade from two angles. Pictures were then taken of the crowd which lined parts of Main street, and then the operator hastened to the tent, where he "caught" the kiddies of Junior Town, the people as they entered the tent, and the general incidents which occur in connection with the opening of Chautauqua.

Junior Town will be formally organized tomorrow morning when Miss Fay K. Moore, junior supervisor, will meet all holders of children's season tickets at the tent at 9 o'clock. After the organization of the town, work will start immediately on the pageant, "America Triumphant," which the children will give next Wednesday afternoon.

Tonight the Davis Company will give an entertainment of Magic and Mystery. Those who have seen this program claim that Mr. Davis ranks high as a magician and that his company offers an excellent program.

Ross C. Dehner, the Chautauqua superintendent, arrived in Maryville late yesterday afternoon. He came here from Harlan, Ia. Mr. Dehner, although a young man, is one of the veterans with Redpath-Vawter. He works with the company the year round, doing booking and office work in the winter and platform work during the segular season.

The Krantz and Davis companies, who are featured on the program today, arrived in Maryville this morning in an automobile bus. All of the talent this year is motorized.

J. D. Hannan, motion picture photographer arrived this morning. The pictures which he took of the parade this afternoon will be sent to Chicago tonight. There they will be developed and returned to Maryville for showing on the last night of Chautauqua.

The program tomorrow will be a combination of music, lecture, and drama. The Blanchard Entertainers will give the prelude tomorrow afternoon. It will include costume songs, stories, and character impersonations.

Following this prelude there will be a lecture, "The Four Square Builder," by "Dinnie" Upton. This lecture according to Mr. Dehner, is one of the most popular and thought-provoking numbers on the program.

Tomorrow night, the comedy, "Applesauce," will be given. This is a New York play which has had a successful metropolitan run and has enjoyed favor as a chautauqua presentation.

The sale of season tickets for Chautauqua closed at 4 o'clock this afternoon. L. L. St. Clair, chairman of the local committee had made no check on finances, but expressed the impression that everything was comfortable.

Mrs. Nixon, 92 years old, is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Everett Whitney of Hopkins. Little hope is held out for her recovery.

"BIG SISTER" MOVEMENT ON COLLEGE Y. W. C. A. IS SPONSORING DRIVE FOR FALL.

TO HELP NEW GIRLS

Each Woman Student Coming Here for First Time Will Have Older Girl to "Show Her the Ropes."

The Young Women's Christian Association at the State Teachers College will sponsor the "Big Sister" movement at the College next year, according to plans completed by the organization today. This movement is to furnish guidance, counsel, and friendship for girls who will enter the College for the first time next year.

The plans call for personal friendship and guidance for each new girl who enters the institution. Letters have been sent out to prospective women students all over the district, asking for their names and addresses. Each girl who comes to Maryville for the first time next year will have a sophomore or upper-class woman as her "Big Sister." This older girl will aid the newcomer in getting located in Maryville, assist her in her matriculation at the College, and in general will do all possible to acquaint her with local College conditions.

The Y. W. C. A. has been conducting a campaign at the College for the last week along these lines. Numbers of women students have signed a list to be "Big Sisters" to freshmen girls next fall.

The movement is not exactly new here. It was worked last fall with much success, and next year the plan is to broaden its scope so that each newcomer will have an older girl to "show her the ropes."

The girls are not alone in the project, however. Men students at the institution have entered into the movement and are giving names and addresses of girls in their home towns who are planning to come to Maryville to school.

The movement will be aided on Wednesday night, September 8, when a Big and Little Sister party will be held at the College. This will enable all new students to become acquainted with one another and will also promote friendships between older students and those coming here for the first time.

The "Big Sister" movement is being worked in many of the larger schools of the country with unmeasured success. At the University of Missouri it has become a tradition, and result show that it is as worth-while as it is commendable.

Miss Dorothy England, vice-president of the local Y. W. C. A. has requested that any person, whether in school or not, who know of girls who will be in school here for the first time next year communicate with her at her home, 608 North Main street, Maryville.

In the storage room, the company will keep only its own cars, new and used. There is space for about thirty, and the room is well lighted by sky lights.

The latest of machine equipment, especially designed for work on Dodge cars and trucks, has been installed in the service department. A space is provided for machine tools, and another room is devoted to tire repairs.

Mr. Gray has reserved a space for storage of his own cars and trucks, but above this room Arnold-Strong have another space for storage of stock and heavy parts.

Final Band Concert Is Undoubtedly Best One

Many Favorable Comments Heard On Work Of Musicians—Concerts Under Auspices Of C. Of C.

The last and undoubtedly the best band concert of the season was given in the courthouse yard last night.

H. O. Hickernell has had remarkable success as a director and many favorable comments were heard last night on the work of the musicians.

A large crowd was present at the concert, which was given under the auspices of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

A. F. Hall of Parnell was a Maryville visitor yesterday.

Victim From Heat Wave in Kansas City

Kansas City, Aug. 5.—Frank L. West, 52, died in General Hospital here this afternoon, the victim of a heat prostration late yesterday. With the mercury reaching 98 at 2 o'clock this afternoon, a new season's heat record looms. July 2, with a miximum of 99, was the hottest day of the year.

J. D. Richardson of Pueblo, Colo., Charles Richardson of Denver, and J. H. Richardson of Eagle, Neb., came last night to visit their mother, Mrs. Lucinda Richardson, and their sister, Miss Daisy Richardson.

ELMO PLANS MUSIC WEEK

FOR A NEW BUILDING

Maryville, Burlington Junction and Pickering Talent to Aid in Replacing One Burned.

A six-day music festival for which part of the talent will be drawn from Maryville will be held next week at Elmo under the auspices of the Loyal Workers class of the Christian Church there.

The programs will be given on the nights of August 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, in a tent to be erected on the Christian Church lawn. The church was destroyed by fire last January, and the proceeds from the music festival are to be applied on a new building. Season tickets are being sold at less than the sum of single admissions.

The festival will open Tuesday night with a full evening program by the Smith and Belding orchestra of Northboro, Ia. Wednesday night the Henry Field Seed Co. of Shenandoah will furnish a program consisting of trio and stringed instruments, and on Thursday night the May Seed Co. of the same city will broadcast a program from the Elmo platform.

A mixed program will be given Friday night with readings, instrumental solos and other numbers from Blanchard, a male quartet from College Springs and saxophone duets from Braddyville.

Sells' Orchestra from Maryville will furnish music Saturday night and there will be a one and one-half hour play by the North Star Dramatic Club, with specialities between acts from Burlington Junction.

The Sunday night program, closing the festival, will include music by the Gaugh orchestra from Maryville, solos from Burlington Junction and an operetta by the Pickering Christian Church.

The Causes of Mexico's Church-State Conflict

The republic of Mexico has passed laws enforcing the constitution of 1857 and the constitution of 1917, which provide:

No foreign clergymen may function in Mexico.

All priests and ministers must register with the government.

Convents and monasteries are prohibited, but the churches are permitted to be kept open.

Religious instruction in primary schools prohibited.

Clergy or religious publications forbidden to criticize the government.

Mayors ordered to appoint committees to take over some 12,000 churches in the country; all ecclesiastical property excepting churches being placed removing 25,000 priests from office.

The Mexican episcopate of the Roman Catholic church has:

Discontinued church services, thus removing 25,000 priests from office.

Deprived 10,000,000 Catholics of mass, penance, communion, and all other sacraments, excepting baptism and matrimony, which will be given by laymen.

KANSAS VOTE IN SPOTLIGHT

GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST IS "HORSE RACE."

WILLIAMS LEAD UP

Nearing 85,000 Mark—Hawes Ahead of Cockrell by 56,000—Gantt's Lead Safe.

Kansas City, Aug. 5.—With the modificationists victorious in Missouri and Montana primaries and the Klan indorsement apparently certain in Oklahoma and Kansas, interest in the primary result today shifted to Kansas where two Democratic gubernatorial candidates are jockeying for the leading position.

Since yesterday, Donald Muir and Jonathan M. Davis, former governor, have been alternately leading and trailing in a closely contested struggle from which will come the Democratic opponent of Governor Ben S. Paulen.

In Missouri, United States Senator George H. Williams, candidate to succeed himself, gained several thousand plurality in the primary election Tuesday as 3484 precincts out of the 4,084 in the state reported today.

His plurality over his Republican opponents, David M. Proctor and W. Blodgett Priest, reached 84,301 today, with the following tabulation:

Williams, 158,541; Proctor, 74,240, and Priest, 49,133.

Representative Harry B. Hawes' lead dwindled slightly over night as more votes came in. His total vote, tabulated up to 1 o'clock this afternoon, was 143,528 as compared with 87,020 for Judge Ewing Cockrell, giving Hawes a majority of 56,508.

Judge Ernest Gantt of Mexico continued to hold a safe lead over his nearest opponent, Col. Carl Ristine, in the race for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Missouri Supreme Court.

State Committees to Meet on September 14

Sessions Will Probably Be Held In Jefferson City—County Committees To Be Organized Aug. 17.

Jefferson City, Aug. 5.—The state conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties will be held September 14 at a place to be designated by the outgoing state committees. It has been the custom to hold the convention in this city and it is generally believed that they will be held here this year.

The law provides that the county committees shall be organized August 17. The chairman and vice-chairman of the committee are ex-officio members of the Congressional, Senate and judiciary committees. The Congressional committee meets August 31 to select two men and two women from each district as members of the state committee. The party platform will be written at the state convention.

Maryville Tomato Weighs Two Pounds

A tomato weighing nearly two pounds and measuring eighteen inches in circumference found its way into the "editorial sanctum" of the Democrat-Forum and Tribune this morning. The tomato came from the garden of Mrs. N. B. Castillo, 316 East Edwards street, and is of the Ponderosa variety. Others in the Castillo garden follow close behind in weight.

$99 Due on Note for $25; Owner Files Suit

How debts grow is well illustrated in attachment suit filed in Circuit Court late yesterday by the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Hopkins against Allie Kysar, said to be no longer a resident of Missouri. The suit is based on a note for $25, made August 4, 1918, due in six months and bearing 8 per cent compound interest. The petition declares nothing has been paid and that $99 is due now.

Chicago Heat Wave Causes Eight Deaths

Scores Have Been Overcome And Several More Deaths Throughout Middle West Are Reported.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Eight persons have died in Chicago in the last twenty-four hours and scores have been overcome as a result of the sizzling heat wave that has struck Chicago.

Additional deaths from other points throughout the Middle West are expected to be at least ten. The mercury went above 90 shortly after noon and was mounting higher.

The Middle West has been between two hot waves, one from the east and one from the west, the forecaster announced today.

BOYCOTT USED BY CATHOLICS

MEXICAN BUSINESS HURT BY RELIGIOUS STRIFE.

RIOTING IS REPORTED

Priest Shot, Mayor Slain in Reprisal. —Early Peace Hoped For Despite Denials.

Washington, Aug. 5.—The Catholic boycott is beginning to have its effect on Mexican business, the commerce department was advised today in a cable from George Wythe, acting commercial attache in Mexico City. The boycott on luxuries has been particularly effective.

Motion picture receipts have fallen off 40 per cent, many automobiles have been withdrawn from use and the department and drug stores have been hard hit, Wythe said.

El Paso, Aug. 5.—A priest at Cadotillan Cacateeas, Mexico, was shot and killed by authorities when he refused to sign an inventory of church property, and a Catholic mob then avenged his death by killing the mayor, according to unconfirmed information brought here from refugees.

Mexico City, Aug. 5.—Though portents of peace are lacking today in the controversy between the government and the Catholic Church, there is, nevertheless, a distinct undercurrent of opinion which seems to anticipate an early settlement.

While on the surface, both sides are claiming victory and all announced that there will be no concessions, beneath the surface and in a quiet way it is understood that the avenues of settlement are being paved. If the government should make statements that its regulations are not directed at the suppression of the church, it is probable that the Catholic Episcopate would then see its way clear to accept the regulations, with both sides agreeing that there has been a misunderstanding of motives.

While there has been some disorders in the provinces, it has been difficult to determine how serious these disorders have been. Reports are that three were killed in Torreon riots but this is not confirmed.

British Debt Is Now Closed, All Agree

Rome, Aug. 5.—"No good can be served in prolonging a controversy which is considered closed so far as the United States is concerned," Secretary of Treasury Mellon declared today when asked to comment on the speech on war debts made in the House of Commons yesterday by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister.

Secretary Mellon read statements by Sir Austen stating that the United States treasury's statement had misrepresented the facts concerning the British credits from the United States but he would make no further comment.

London, Aug. 5.—The controversy over the Anglo-American debt settlement was determined officially closed today by the British foreign office. The statement made in the House of Commons by Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister, represents Great Britain's last word, it was stated officially, and it is believed Sir Austen's statement of policy will be that of all future governments.

Sir Austen, after supporting Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequor, and declaring that Secretary Mellon's statement on war debts had misrepresented the situation, said that Great Britain would not ask for a revision of the debt settlement.

ILLINOIS DRYS SPEND $178,000

SLUSH FUND PROBE GOES INTO LIQUOR ISSUE.

TO OPPOSE BRENNAN

Even More Vigorous Fight Will Be Made In November Election, Committee Is Told.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The state Anti-Saloon League plays an active part in Illinois politics and has spent $178,000 in the last year on behalf of prohibition in this state, George B. Stafford, state superintendent, testified this afternoon before the Senate slush fund committee at its inquiry into the million-dollar Illinois Senatorial primary.

The League spent $48,000 between January and the primary in vigorously opposing George Brennan, the wet candidate on the Democratic ticket, while indorsing both Col. Frank L. Smith and his defeated opponent, Senator William B. McKinley.

The League will take even a more active part in the November election in an effort to defeat Brennan, Safford said.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The wet and dry issue was thrust for the first time today into the Senate inquiry in the million-dollar Illinois Senatorial primary when the slush fund committee questioned George B. Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, on the dry organization's activities in the recent election.

Safford declared the state dry organization had raised and spent $178,000 in Illinois for all purposes in the last twelve months.

Safford took the stand after Frank L. Smith, Republican Senatorial nominee, had been questioned and admitted that he knew during his campaign that Samuel Insull, utility king of the Middle West, had contributed to his campaign fund. After the gifts had become an issue in the campaign, Smith said, he referred to them in a speech at Springfield, Ill.

Chicago, August 5.—The Senate slush fund inquiry into the million-dollar Illinois primary entered its closing stages today with an investigation of the state Anti-Saloon League's political activities as the final feature.

The committee summoned George B. Stafford, state superintendent of the league, Morris Eller, a local Republican leader, and Frank L. Smith, who won the Republican Senatorial nomination, as the final witnesses. It is believed that Stafford would furnish the high lights, although Eller was called for further delving into charges of election terrorism in the recent primary.

Two other witnesses already subpoenaed are James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., and Clement Studebaker, jr. They will be heard in the fall.

The questioning of Stafford will mark the first injection of wet and dry issues in the Illinois inquiry.

Charles Ponzi Again Loses in Legal Fight

Ordered by Judge to Be Turned Over to Massachusetts Authorities— Appeals and Is in Jail.

The former financial wizard immediately appealed from Judge Ashe's decision and will be held in jail here without bail.

Dry Law Enforcement Has Made Progress

But Legislation Recommended At Last Session Of Congress Badly Needed, Church Officer Believes.

Washington, August 5.—Prohibition enforcement has made progress in the last year but adoption of more stringent legislation proposed by the last Congress is essential to effective operation of the government's dry machinery, Betts Pickett, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, declared today.

The board will take steps to get behind the legislative program in the next session of Congress at the anual meeting to be called by Bishop William McDowell some time in November.

While the anti-smuggling agreement made with Great Britain by General Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition chief, is regarded as a helpful move, Pickett declared that rum running is a minor enforcement problem.

The government must concentrate on two important phases of enforcement, according to Pickett. These are:

(1) Suppression of the moonshine industry.

(2) A drive against industrial alcohol diversion.

He Eats 'Em Raw.

Bob Strain, manager of the Mutti & Brown garage, at Hopkins thinks people are foolish to cook roasting ears when they are so much better and healthier when eaten raw or as nature made them, according to the Hopkins Journal. Hopkins Men Win at Bedford Fair

Merve Safley is feeling fine over results at the Bedford fair and John Gailey is wearing a smile that won't wear off.

Merve exhibited Belgian horses and Jersey cattle and did not get as low as third place on any of them, getting the blue and red ribbons with the blues predominating. He has good stock and received many compliments besides the ribbons and money.

Gailey exhibited six head of Shetland ponies and like Mr. Safley, was awarded the blue and red ribbons with the blues in the majority. A chariot is now being built for him by Ed Horn of the Mutti & Brown garage, to be used in the chariot races he is to put on at the Shenandoah and Corning fairs.

The Shenandoah fair begins next week and the Corning fair the following week. John will then either go to Creston or Bethany fair and expects to win most of the prize money wherever his ponies are entered. He has a nice string of high class Shetlands and knows how to exhibit them to the best advantage.—Hopkins Journal.

Trullinger entertained a group of relatives last night at their home on North Saunders street for their daughter, Miss Laura Mae Trullinger, who will return to St. Joseph Saturday to resume her studies at the Nurses' Training School of the Missouri Methodist Hospital. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Those entertained were Mr. and Mrs. Joel Trullinger, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trullinger, Mrs. Ella Trullinger, Betty Lou Snyder, Donald Trullinger and Harry Trullinger.

Dowling-Gray.

On Sunday evening, Aug. 1, Harry M. Gray of near Good Hope, and Miss Loreata Downing of the Old Xenia neighborhood, drove to the Methodist church parsonage in Hopkins and were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Harper. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kemp, Mrs. Kemp being a sister of the bride.—Hopkins Journal.

Birthday Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cooper entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner last evening in observance of the birthday anniversary of the former's father, T. C. Cooper. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Edelman.

Week About Normal in Warmth, But Dry

The week ending Tuesday morning, August 3, averaged about normal as to warmth in Missouri but was deficient in rainfall, according to the weekly weather and crop bulletin for the state, issued by George Reeder, meteorologist at Columbia.

"The first half of the week," the report says, "was hot and clear, but the latter part was mostly cloudy and relatively cool, which helped to lessen soil evaporation.

"Showers were heavy enough to temporarily satisfy the corn crop in much of the State, but in some sections, particularly the east-central and more or less generally south of the Missouri River, are suffering from a rather severe drought. Corn on the higher lands and on thin soils is already seriously damaged; it is largely in silk, and much in the roasting ear stage. Generally north of the Missouri River, except the east-central counties, and Macon and Adair, corn is still mostly good to excellent. The more advanced fields are in silk and here and there the roasting stage. A good general rain soon is essential for a normal yield. The rainfall to date is thirty per cent less than the usual amount; and the subsoil moisture is low.

"The cotton crop is quite satisfactory. The growth is about ten days behind the usual stage of development at this time of the season but plants are, as a rule, well bolled, and in New Madrid County, heavily bloomed. Recent rains greatly helped all crops in the southeast.

"Wheat threshing continued with fair yields and quality. Hay making is done for the present in most sections. Pastures are good where rains fell. The peach crop is fair, the apple crop good."

The total rainfall for the state during the week was .64 inch, as against a thirty-six year normal of .76 inch. Maryville had only .38 inch. The state's rainfall from April 1 to date is 12.19 inches, as against a normal of 17.43.

Sioux City Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wiedmaier of Sioux City, Ia., are expected tomorrow morning for a two weeks' visit with the latter's aunt, Miss Mary Harmon, and Mr. Wiedmaier's parents in St. Joseph. Mrs. Weidmaier was formerly Miss Edna Harmon of Maryville. They are motoring through.

FARM GLIMPSES

By BILLY TILSON

A few days ago we stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Bolin, 8 miles southwest of Maryville, in White Cloud township where they settled fifty-two years ago in what was then a wilderness. In speaking of those days Mr. Bolin said the only way you could see out was to look straight up. Now you see a well improved farm with fine grass, grain and fine corn growing thereon. Mr. Bolin is past 77 years of age and Mrs. Bolin is past 75 years of age. Both are hale and hearty for people of their age and it is worth ones while to hear them tell of their early struggles. They have reared a family of six boys and two girls. Their son J. O. is looking after the farming for them at the present time. Mr. Bolin says all he had when he started to clear the ground for cultivation was an ax and a wagonload of determination and a young wife, who had explicit faith in him. How well he succeeded can be seen by looking over that farm. Mr. Bolin had the first sorghum mill in the country and the farmers hauled their cane for miles to that mill. Bolin's sorghum was a household word and no home was complete without some of that spread to smother hot pancakes in through the winter months. Another industry that has been established down on that farm is a broom factory and for forty-four years Mr. Bolin has worked in that little factory, where he has turned out thousands of brooms of every kind, which have gone into the homes and offices of this and adjoining counties. Today despite the seventy-seven winters that have passed over his head he can be found nearly every day making brooms to satisfy those who will have no other but the Bolin broom. He says that when better homes are made Bolin will make them. Most all of the broom corn used, he raises on the farm. He says this is a good broom corn soil but the heavy dews make it hard to cure. One acre of corn will produce about 700 pounds for use in brooms and sells for $135.50 per hundred. He enjoys the work and expects to keep on making brooms for several years.

R. D. Blaine and wife, east of Clearmont, were visiting in Maryville yesterday. Mr. Blaine reports the threshing most all done. Corn is looking fair but pastures are beginning to need rain.

George Johnson, northeast of Clearmont, has a car load of hogs that are ready for the market. They are of his own raising. He says they have had plenty of rain in his neighborhood lately and corn is looking fine but the hog market isn't satisfactory at the present.

C. S. Johnson near Clearmont finished threshing his grain yesterday. Reports from the machine were a very good yield.

Guy Clary of Clearmont has 80 acres of fine timothy that he has cut for seed. He thinks it will make around 9 bushels per acre.

Sherm Heflin and son, Alva, were in the city yesterday. They report a couple of good rains down that way last week. Corn is looking fine. Threshing is most all finished.

Jackson and Schooler, southwest of Maryville, finished threshing their grain Tuesday. They had a field of oats that averaged 66 bushels per acre. This field was plowed, harrowed and the oats drilled in, putting on two and one half bushels to the acre. Another field averaged fifty-one bushels per acre. This field was disked and harrowed and sowed broadcast, sowing 2 bushels per acre. Sweet clover was sowed with it. Their oats last year averaged 70 bushels to the acre. John Myers was doing the threshing. The machine went from there to the Bellows field.

William Needles and family, northeast of Ravenwood, were Maryville visitors yesterday. Will says rain is badly needed over that way. Pastures are getting dried up and if rain doesn't come soon the corn crop will be badly hurt.

James Glenn, Wes Miller and Cy Huckelburry, south of Burlington Junction, were in the city yesterday. They say wheat and oats are nearly all in the bin and while the yield has not been large the quality has been good.

Howard Bancroft, northeast of Clearmont, was transacting business in the city yesterday. He says they have had plenty of rain in his vicinity but in northeast it is pretty dry.

Harry Zook, west of Pickering, was threshing his wheat and oats yesterday. They were making only a fair yield.

Charles Lewis, southeast of Hopkins, in the Gaynor City neighborhood, reports crops looking good up that way but rain will soon be needed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Reece George and sons of Miles City, Mont., who are visiting at their former home in Hopkins, spent today in Maryville. They moved to Montana from Hopkins twenty years ago.

Wolves Become Bold in Hopkins Vicinity

It seems that wolves are becoming altogether too plentiful in the vicinity of Hopkins, increasing to such an extent that they are now seen near the public highways. Oliver Young, the hardware man, seeing a big one Monday along the road running north of the Moorhead farm, 2 miles south of Hopkins, an unusually big fellow that was trotting along in the oats stubble as contentedly as you please, being easily within gunshot, but unfortunately, the hardware man had no gun along.

Ben Ingels, on the Sam Robbins farm, 4 miles east of Hopkins, last week saw a big wolf in his feed lots in broad day light.

W. S. Nicholson and other farmers have been losing lambs and many pigs have been carried off by these fierce carniverous animals. They increase rapidly and something must be done to rid the country of them or they will soon prove a very serious menace.—Hopkins Journal.

New Jackson County Courthouse Loses

Voters Defeat Bond Issue for $5,000,000.—Old Building, Erected in 1828, Still Stands.

Independence, Aug. 5.—At the general primary election Tuesday, the voters of Jackson County defeated a proposal for the erection of a new courthouse. The proposed bond issue for $5,000,000 also called for a new courthouse in Kansas City and other county buildings.

Situated in the heart of the city, the old log cabin courthouse still stands in the midst of modernized stone buildings, a silent testimony to one hundred years of material progress. It was built in 1828 at a cost of $150 and is the oldest courthouse west of the Mississippi river. The cabin is now used as headquarters for the Community Welfare League.

The native walnut logs were hewed by "Samuel Shepherd", a slave of James Shepherd ,whose picture now hangs on the wall of the old building. The doors and windows were constructed by Samuel Weston, a blacksmith, who founded his shop with these earnings. Weston's establishment later became famous as an outfitting center for pioneers embarking on the Santa Fe and Oregon trails.

In 1919 the old court house was restored and moved from its original location to the City Hall campus. The late Christian Ott gave it to the city. The decayed parts of the building were duplicated but the main parts were preserved.

German Embassy Warns Against Marks

Washington, Aug. 5.—The German Embassy has issued a warning against speculation in former German paper mark bonds and bank notes, which is still going on.

The Embassy points out that owing to the creation of a new currency the former German banknotes are practically worthless. Bonds and securities have been revalued to a limited extent.

SOUNDING OUT ARMS HOPES

NAVAL ARMS CONFERENCE MAY BE HELD SOON.

NO DEFINITE PLANS

United States, Great Britain and Japan For Further Understanding On Ship Limitation.

Washington, Aug 5.—American representatives abroad are participating in informal conversations for a naval arms conference if the present Geneva conference fails.

Statements by president Coolidge's spokesman and Secretary of State Kellogg emphasizing this government's complete coo-operation in the Geneva endeavor, do not mean the administration is optimistic of practical results there, it was learned authoritatively today.

Though this government is canvassing possibilities of another conference of more limited scope, it is understood conversations have not yet reached the stage of definite proposals.

Informed persons here discounted press reports that Great Britain has rejected an informal American proposal for a conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, to limit auxiliary naval craft on the 5-5-3 ratio fixed for capital ships by the first Washington naval conference.

The three major naval powers are said to be working harmoniously on the problem of further naval limitation, in which Great Britain is as vitally interested as the other two governments.

The GIRL in the MIRROR

By Elizabeth Jordan

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY COMPANY

THE STORY.

CHAPTER I.—Barbara Devon's wedding and departure of her honeymoon leaves her brother "Laurie," successful playright but somewhat inclined to wildness, without her restraining influence. His theatrical associates, Rodney Bangs and Jacob Epstein, promise to "keep an eye on him."

CHAPTER II. — Laurie, who is wealthy, refuses to settle down to work, announcing his intention of resting and seeking "adventure." From his window in New York he sees the reflection of a beautiful girl in a mirror in the house opposite.

CHAPTER III.—Devon learns from the elevator boy in the girl's house that her name is Mayo. Again in the mirror's reflection he sees her with a revolver and fears she means to commit suicide. He breaks into her apartment and, winning her confidence, induces her to lunch with him, though she warns him of "danger."

CHAPTER IV

A Pair of Gray Eyes

On their way to the restaurant Laurie had selected he chatted to his companion in his buoyant, irresponsible fashion, but he had put through the details of the episode with tact and delicacy. He knew that in front of a club two doors away from the studio building a short line of taxicabs was always waiting, with the vast patience of their kind. A gesture brought one of these to the door, and when it had squawked its way around the corner, the girl remained in its shelter until Laurie had briefly re-entered his own building and emerged again, wearing his coat and hat.

They drove to a quiet place where the food and service were excellent, while the prices were an effective barrier against a crowd. When he and his companion were seated on opposite sides of a table in an isolated corner, Laurie confided his order to the waiter, urged that willing individual to special haste, and smiled apologetically at the lady.

"I'm hungry," he said briskly. "I haven't had any breakfast this morning. Don't be surprised if I seem to absorb most of the nourishment in the place."

He studied her as he spoke. It was easy to do so, for she seemed almost to have forgotten him and her surroundings. She sat drooping forward a little in her pet attitude, with her elbows on the table, and her chin in her hand, staring through the window with a look he had seen in the mirror. The lethargy he dreaded again enveloped her like a garment.

His heart sank. Here was something more than the victim of a mad but temporary impulse. Here was a victim of a sick soul, or of a burden greater than she could bear, or perhaps of both. He decided that whatever her trouble might be, it was no new or passing thing. Every curve in her despondent figure, every line in her worn, lovely face, suggested a vast weariness of flesh and spirit.

In this moment of realization he almost forgot the girl's beauty, though, indeed, it was not easy to forget. It seemed enhanced rather than dimmed by the haze of melancholy that hung over it, and certainly there was nothing dim in the superb red-gold coloring of her hair. Her eyes seemed red-gold, too, for they were reddish-brown with flecks of yellow light in them, quite wonderful eyes. He told himself that he had never seen any just like them. Certainly he had rarely seen anything to equal the somber misery of their expression. There was a remoteness in them which repelled sympathy, and which was intensified by the haughty curve of the girl's short upper lip. She was proud, proud as the devil, Laurie told himself. Again, and very humbly, he wondered how he was to handle a situation and a personality so outside his own experience. In truth, he was afraid.

When the food came, her expression changed. She shot a quick look at him, a glance at once furtive and suspicious, which he saw but ignored. He had dismissed the waiter and was serving her himself. In the simple boyish friendliness of his manner she evidently found reassurance, for she suddenly sat up and began her breakfast.

Laurie exhaled the breath he had been holding. Up till the last moment he had feared that she might see through his subterfuge in taking her there, and even now refuse the food he offered. But if in that fleeting instant she felt doubt, it had died as it was born. She drank her coffee slowly and ate her eggs and toast as deliberately, but her characteristic air of intense preoccupation had departed. She looked at her companion as if she really saw him. Also, she apparently felt the stirring of some sense of obligation and need of response to this friendly stranger. She was answering him now, and once at least she almost smiled.

Watching the little twitch of her proud and perfect upper lip, Laurie felt his heart-beats quicken. She was a wonder, this girl; and with his delight in her beauty and her pride came another feeling, almost as new as his humility—an overwhelming sympathy for and a desire to help another.

These sentiments served as needed balance to his spirits, which, as always, mounted dangerously when he was interested. He held himself down with difficulty.

This was no time for the nonsense that he loved to talk. One doesn't rescue a lady from suicide and then try to divert her mind with innocent prattle. One gives her a decent time to pull herself together, and then, with tact and sympathy, one gets to the roots of her trouble, if one can, and helps to destroy them. Despite his limited experience with drama off the stage, Laurie knew this. Because he was very young and very much in earnest, and was talking to a young thing like himself, though in that hour she seemed so much older, he instinctively found the right way to approach the roots.

They had finished breakfast, and he had asked and received permission to smoke. When he had lighted his cigarette and exhaled his first satisfying puff of smoke, not in rings this time, he took the cigarette from his mouth, and with his eyes on its blazing end expressed his thought with stark simplicity.

"When we were over in your studio," he said, "I admitted that twice in my life I had tried to—make away with myself. Only two other persons in the world know that, but I'd like to tell you about it, if you don't mind."

She looked at him. There were strange things in the look, things that thrilled him, and other things he subconsciously resented, without understanding why. When she spoke there was a more personal note in her voice than it had yet held.

"You?" she asked; and she added almost lightly, "That seems absured."

"I know."

Laurie spoke with the new humility he had found only today.

"You think that because I'm so young I couldn't have been desperate enough for that. But—you're young, too."

He was looking straight at her as he spoke. Her eyes, a little hard and challenging, then dropped.

"That's different," she muttered.

He nodded.

"I know the causes were different enough," he agreed. "But the feeling back of them, that pushes one up against such a proposition, must be pretty much the same sort of thing. Anyway, it makes me understand; and I consider that it gives me a claim on you, and the privilege of trying to help you."

Her eyes were still cast down, and suddenly she flushed, a strange, dark flush that looked out of place on the pure whiteness of her skin. She had the exaggerated but wholesome pallor of skin that often goes with reddish hair and red-brown eyes. It does not lend itself becomingly to flushes, and this deep flush lingered, an unwelcome visitor, throughout her muttered, almost ungracious words.

"Oh, please don't talk about it," she said, brusquely. "It's no use. I know you mean to be kind, but you can't do anything."

"Oh, but that's just where you're wrong." Laurie spoke with a cheerful assurance he did not feel. "If I hadn't been there myself, I'd talk all sorts of twaddle to you, and do more harm than good; and I'd probably let you go on thinking you were facing a trouble that no one could help. Instead of that, you and I are going to hold your bugaboo up to the light, and see just what it is and how small it is. And then—" he smiled at her—"we're going to get rid of it together."

She echoed his words, vaugely, as if not knowing quite what to say.

"Get rid of it?"

"Yes. Tell me what it is, and I'll show you how it can be downed."

She pushed back her chair, as if anxious to put a greater distance between them.

"No," she exclaimed, nervously, "it's impossible; I can't talk about it." Then, in an obvious effort to side-track the issue, "You said you wanted to tell me about your—experience."

"I do, but it isn't a nice story. Fortunately, it won't take long." He spoke reluctantly. It was not easy to hook two much memories out of the darkest pool of his life and hold them up to a stranger.

"Oh, I was a young idiot," he rushed on, "and I suppose I hadn't the proper start-off. At least I like to think there's some excuse for me. My father and mother died when I was in knickerbockers, and I grew up doing very much as I pleased. I—made a bad job of it. Before I was twenty one I was expelled from college and I had worked up a pretty black reputation. Then I gambled and lost a lot of money I didn't have, and it began to look as if about the only safe place for me was the family vault.

"I made two efforts to get there. The first time a wise old doctor stopped me and never told any one about it. The second time one of my chums took a hand in the game. I don't know why they did it. I don't suppose either my pal or the doctor thought I was worth saving. But they talked to me like Dutch uncles, and my chum kept at it till I gave him my word that I'd never attempt anything of the sort again."

"You were just an unhappy boy," she said, as if thinking aloud, "with all life before you and many friends to back you up."

"And you," he suggested, "are just an unhappy girl with all life before you. I don't know anything about your friends, but I'll wager you've got a lot of them."

She shook her head.

"Not one," she said, slowly, "I mean not one I dare to call on, now."

"I like that! You've got me to call on, right here."

This time she really smiled at him. It was a pathetic little smile, but both lips and eyes took part in it. He waited, but she said no more. He began to fear that his confidence had been given to no purpose. Evidently she had no intention of making a confession in return. He resumed his attack from a new angle.

"You've been disappointed in something or some one," he said. "Oh," as she made a gesture, "don't think I'm belittling it! I know it was something big. But the finish you chose wasn't meant to be, or it would have come off. You see that don't you? The very sun in its course took pains to show you to me in time to stop it. That means something, Miss Mayo."

She seemed slightly startled.

"It is Miss Mayo, isn't it? That's the name the elevator boy gave me, yesterday."

"It will do." She spoke absently, already on the trail of another thought. Suddenly she caught it.

"Then you brought the basket, or sent it?" she cried. "It was you! How dared you!"

She had half risen from her chair. Bending across the table, he gently pushed her back into it.

"Sit down," she said imperturbably.

She hesitated, and he repeated the command, this time almost murtly. Under the new tone she oyebed.

Where Did She Get That Graceful Figure?
You remember her of course—not so long ago she was a regular scarecrow—skinny is a mild word for the way she looked.
Just look at her now—if ever a woman had a perfect figure she has it—she is the envy of half the girls in town.
It's nothing to get excited about—all she did was to take on weight—filled out the hollows in face, neck and chest—any skinny weak, run down woman can do the same and gain a clean clear complexion at the same time.
Just get 60 McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 60 cents at Gaugh & Evans or any druggist anywhere—Take 2 after each meal and two at bedtime and if any excessively thin woman, or man either for that matter, doesn't gain at least five pounds in 30 days! Why! Money back.
One very thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days. Ask for McCoy's.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—With the exception of the deferred corn deliveries, all grains closed lower than yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. However, all of them showed some gain over losses of early in the day.

Wheat closed ½c to ¾c off. The market was very nervous, responding to all buying.

Corn was under pressure early in the day. Short covering enabled prices to rally.

Oats sold off early and were neglected.

Provisions closed uneven, lard being higher but ribs sagged.

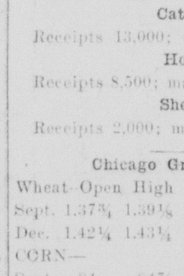
Salesgirls Dread Bargain Days



Louisa was tired. From morning until night she had been on her feet in the busy department store. No matter how she felt, she must serve her customers with a smile. Her head throbbed and her feet ached. Week after week, she felt her strength ebbing until she was in a run-down condition, not fit to work.

"My mother suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she writes. "I took only three bottles and it brought me about all right." Through the Vegetable Compound, she found better health to do her work and she told the other girls about it.

That was several years ago. Louisa is now Mrs. L. G. Van Dyke of 1246 Spring St., Morrell Park, Baltimore, Md. She is the mother of three healthy, active children. She says that she found the tonic effect of the Vegetable Compound helpful to her during this critical period.

Every working girl knows that to do her work properly and easily she must have good health. She can not afford to lose time from her work.

Girls who suffer from weakness and run down condition should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
